"I LOBE DE BOAT SHOWS, BUT OH YOU CARNIVAL"

QUICK WORK

Man Advertises For Wife And Gets One in Just Four Days After Mailing His Letter.

"WANTED—To correspond with young lady, object matrimony, no objection to poor girl, but honest. I have a good home for a good wife. Address R. T., Hardinsburg, Ky."

The above appeared in the Owensboro Messenger on Sunday, June 6. By Monday night seven answers had been received. The next two mails brought twenty-one others. Singling from the first responses one which he thought would seal his fate, Mr. R. T. answered asking for a letter. His special delivery stamp speedily delivered his request. The letter came in a day or two saying he might call. Mr. R. T. wrote saying he would call at 5:30 the following Sunday afternoon. Time wore on slowly and the thought came "he who dallies, loses". Acting upon the thought R. T. went to his boarding house on Wednesday and told his friends he was going away for a day or two to get married, and immediately left. At exactly 8:20 Thursday morning he met his fair correspondent, each recognizing the other though no exchange of pictures had been made. At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon the wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, 114 Pearl street, Owensboro. This is less than two weeks after setting foot upon Kentucky soil, in four days after advertising, after receiving only one real letter, and within six hours after setting eyes upon the bride, the couple were married and ready to return to Hardinsburg.

"R. T." are the initials of Ralph Taylor, a Californian, who has long dreamed of coming to Kentucky and marrying a Kentucky girl. Being romantically inclined Mr. Taylor came to the Blue Grass State intending to find a wife in this particular way. The bride is Miss Ella Voyles, of Pelville, Ky., daughter of Mr. D. H. Voyles. She is a charming lady, three years a teacher in Ohio and Hancock counties, and under contract to teach again this year, which she was expected to do until she met Mr. Taylor and became his wife. The groom came from Cuba to Kentucky and is delighted with the state. He is a pleasant, companionable man making friends rapidly, possessing a frank, open face, carrying the stamp of a true gentleman in his entire appearance and conduct.

At present they have rooms with County Commissioner, Lee Walls, on Louisville street.

Mr. Taylor contemplates purchasing a farm and locating here, he being highly pleased with Kentucky hospitality and the land where he secured his bonny bride.

Forty or fifty answers have been received from the advertisement, several from Breckinridge county, but by far the greater number coming from Owensboro. They come from ladies in all stations in life, and like the advertisement called for, all have a straight forward business tone declares Mr. Taylor. He has responded to each letter, telling the fair applicants that he is now married and happy. A few who responded have written again thanking him for his courteous responses and letting them know that his marriage had been consummated.

Fatally Burned.

Hardinsburg, Ky., July 15.—(Special).—Amos Black's three or four-year-old little son, near Elwood, was fatally burned at an early hour this morning. The child was alone by the kitchen stove when its clothing became ignited.

St. John's Day Celebration.

Hardinsburg, —(Special).—Saturday and Sunday next will be busy days in this city. For many weeks the local masons have been looking forward to a great gathering of craftsmen from all parts of the county on this occasion, and from what we hear there is not much chance of their being disappointed. All sister lodges of the county have received invitations from Breckinridge Lodge No. 67 to send representative delegations to the celebration, and masons from surrounding counties will also join in the event.

The programme begins on Saturday afternoon, when a public reception will be given at the residence of Rev. Dr. Arthur Mather in honor of the distinguished visitors who are to take part in the proceedings. This will be from three to five o'clock, and the following program is announced by General David R. Murray, who is chairman of the reception committee: Address of welcome, Hon. John P. Haswell, Jr., Response, Rev. C. C. Woods, D. D., and St. Louis, Mo., Past Grand Master, of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, A. F. & A. M., Recital, Dr. R. C. Blackmer, of St. Louis, Mo., Address: Hon. Logan C. Murray, of Louisville, Recital, Dr. R. C. Blackmer, and address: Hon. R. R. Woods, postmaster of the city of Louisville. Refreshments suited to the occasion will be dispensed by a committee of ladies under the direction of Mrs. M. H. Wood.

At night Breckinridge Lodge will hold a special meeting in its hall for the purpose of conferring the degree of Master Mason upon county superintendent of schools, Joel H. Pile, and the work will be done under the presidency of Dr. Woods, assisted by Dr. Blackmer and others.

On Sunday at 11 o'clock Dr. Woods will preach in the Southern Methodist church and he will also occupy the same pulpit at night. As he is one of the leading men of Missouri Methodism, and an eloquent and impressive speaker we have no doubt but that a great treat is in store for those who will be fortunate enough to hear him on this occasion.

Let everybody get ready to tender a real Hardinsburg welcome to our visitors, and demonstrate the fact that we appreciate good things when they are put in our way.

During their stay in the city the visitors will be entertained as follows: Rev. C. C. Woods, D. D., and Dr. R. C. Blackmer, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Mather; Logan C. Murray at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Wood; Hon. R. R. Woods at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Beard. The late Gov. Thomas T. Crittenden, who was to have been present and to whom a prominent part on the program had been assigned, was to have been the guest of General and Mrs. David R. Murray.

The celebration has been projected under the auspices of Breckinridge Lodge No. 67, and the arrangements have been carried out under the supervision of a Grand Special Committee consisting of Rev. Dr. Arthur Mather, Rev. Isaiah Cline, C. E. Haswell, Dr. J. E. Kinchloe and J. H. Pile with the Worshipful Master, Jesse Whitworth as ex-officio.

VENERABLE PRESIDENT RESIGNED.

President Patterson Will Quit When Suitable Man Is Found To Take His Place.

Lexington, Ky., June 4.—There have been numerous functions at the State University the past year, and after each of them the local newspapers have scarcely headed the fortnightly rumor: "President Patterson has resigned." They had it again today after the commencement exercises. The story ran like this:

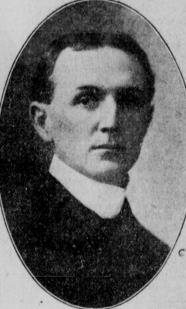

"It is stated on good authority that President James Kennedy Patterson yesterday afternoon tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the board of trustees, and his successor."

President Patterson said to-night: "I have not resigned and I do not know when I will resign. I have many times discussed the subject of my advancing age, my long service and my forthcoming retirement as the need of this great institution of learning, which has grown under my eye and direction these forty years past, and I have told the trustees that I will resign when a suitable man is found to take my place. When that will be I cannot say, neither can I say whom my successor will be."

Buys Out Fraize.

R. L. Newson has purchased the entire interest of F. Fraize in the H. & C. Turnpike Road, including buildings, machinery, tools, etc.

Urged to Become a Candidate.

C. VIC. ROBERTSON.

Mr. C. V. Robertson is being strongly solicited to make the race on the Democratic ticket for County Cou. Clerk. He is one of the strong young men of our county. Everybody knows him and likes him. He is not a candidate. He is not making any fight for the nomination. We don't know that he would accept it if offered. His name on the ticket would add much to its strength and his chances for success. If the Democrats want a good, clean, strong man for the place, they couldn't do better than to offer Mr. Robertson the place. He has never consented so far as the News knows, to even submit his name to the convention, but if the convention sees fit to tender him the nomination without a fight, we have no doubt but he would accept it. If he does accept, we know, and all voters know, that he will go in to win and win big.

Pete Cobb Dead.

Pete Cobb, a well known colored man, died at his home here yesterday morning of consumption. Zale Wortham, his half brother, who lives in Cincinnati, came down last week to see him and was here at his death. Cobb was porter for F. Fraize for several years, and was a very worthy colored man. He leaves a wife and four children.

Wins First Prize.

The above is a good likeness of Miss Claudia Pate, who won first prize in her district in the Owensboro Messenger's recent contest. Miss Pate won the trip up the Pacific coast to the Yankton Pacific Exposition, which embraced a stay of about forty days. On account of Miss Pate being so young she traded her trip to Miss Katherine Busby, of Owensboro, for the third prize, in that district, which was a $200 rubber tire platform. Miss Pate says she is going to give all who voted for her a ride in her new rig.

AN INNOVATION.

New Showboat Makes Radical Change in Performances Presented.

The Cotton Blossom Floating Theatre entertained a packed house at the wharf last night, the performance being out of the ordinary, in the sense that it was a drama, pure and simple, a drama of so excellent merit that the people were reluctant to go home when the curtain had finally fallen on the last scene of the final act. The showboat, tracing the various characters, very decidedly above the average, the show was clean and wholesome, and its various scenes were enacted with so much earnestness that little was left to be desired. The specialties were the best ever seen at a boat show and were very interesting and amusing. The illustrated songs and moving pictures were also above the ordinary. The Cotton Blossom will be warmly welcomed upon its next trip to this neighborhood.—Sensinel, California, Pa. The above show will be at the landing Monday, June 21.

City Improvements.

One of the prettiest homes in town is that of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yeager's on Second Street in the West End. Among the improvements on the residence are hardwood floors.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton are beautifully improving their home on Houston St. They will also build a cottage on Scott Street adjoining their lot.

Chas. Hamman is improving his furniture store by putting in a modern show window, which will be very attractive to the building.

Conrad Sippel, E. Scott and F. Fraize are improving Main street by having new brick pavements laid in front of their buildings.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lichfield is being extensively improved both inside and out. Their residence is on Center street and one of the most beautiful places in the West End.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT

At Methodist Church Beautiful Service-Largely Attended by All Denominations.

Miss Margaret Burn, Miss Lula Severs and Mrs. Ira Beben have been receiving compliments and congratulations upon the success of the children's exercises given at the Methodist church Sunday evening. The young ladies had complete charge of the program, which contained several interesting and creditable features.

Little Miss Essie Reid was the star of the evening. She sang most sweetly and the audience could not resist applauding her.

PROF. WROE

Honored With a Position in Blue Grass High School. Taught Here Seven Years.

Edmund Wroe who for seven years has taught in Cloverport Graded School and for two years principal of the High School, has accepted a position at Flemingsburg, Ky. He will be superintendent of the school.

Prof. Wroe is a most successful teacher and is well qualified to hold the position given him. It is said a prophet is without a home in his own country, but Prof. Wroe has been given honor in his own town, which is unusual for most home boys.

THE BEST ONE THIS SEASON.

The Performance Given by the Show Boat, "Sunny South" Eclipsed Them All

So Far.

BELL & RICHARDS A FINE TEAM

One of the best performances that has been given at the river this season was given at the landing by W. R. Markle's "Sunny South." It was brilliant and sparkling from start to finish, and received the unanimous commendation of the vaudeville loving public. Bell & Richards deserve special mention on their musical act. In fact the show was all that could be expected for the admission price.

Balltown Double Header.

Balltown and Beach Fork crossed bats Sunday. The results was 19 to 1 in favor of Balltown. A double header was played, Tarfork crossed bats with Balltown, four innings was played, 4 to 1 in favor of Balltown. Curtis Pate and Rayton Pate were the batters. It was C. Pate's first pitching. The Balltown boys defeated Victoria on June 6th, 23 to 9.

ELEGANT BANQUET AT FORDSVILLE.

Masons Confer Degree On Six Well-Known Men—Interest Toasts Delivered By Several Guests.

NEWS RECEIVED INVITATION.

The Breckinridge News was complimented by an invitation to attend the banquet given by the Fordsville Lodge, No. 600 Saturday evening. Mr. Babage seriously regretted that he could not be present, but heartily appreciated the courtesy extended to him.

The banquet was delightful. An elaborate menu was served and bright, enjoyable toasts were spoken during the evening by the following: M. J. Holbrook, of Whitesville; G. B. Likens, of Hartford; Rev. Mather, of Hardinsburg; and Dr. J. E. Baughill acted as toastmaster.

Simon B. Smith, G. G. Lamur, and Ed. Serotter had charge of the program. W. W. Hale, Olla Wilson and C. J. Harder were the reception committee. They put forth every effort to make the banquet enjoyable and their expectations were indeed fulfilled.

The Master Mason Degree was conferred on the following candidates: Olla T. Cobb, J. R. Westerfield, W. H. Haynes, Ed. Strother, Frederick Petty and T. W. Williamson.

GREAT RECORD.

For The Louisville Southern Railway—Not A Passenger Has Ever Been Killed In Twenty Odd Years of Operation.

The Lawrenceburg News has the following interesting article, which shows a record probably without a parallel in the United States in railroad circles:

"The Louisville division of the Southern Railway was opened for traffic between Louisville and Burgin in July. It is a remarkable fact, but nevertheless true, that up to this good day in June, 1909, almost twenty-one years after this line was completed, together with the branch to Lexington, which was opened for business in 1889, the branch from Versailles to Georgetown and the extension from Harrodsburg to Danville, which was subsequently built, making a total mileage of 138 miles, not a single passenger has been killed in the various accidents which this road has sustained during its many years of operation."

"The writer was connected with this road for several years, and therefore is in a position to realize to some extent the reason for this immunity from danger to the many patrons of this popular line. He has also many years ridden over the line quite frequently and during the past four years covered the trip from this city, Lexington and Louisville weekly, and he could not fail to observe the uniring care and watchfulness exercised by the train employees, from the engineers and conductors down to the flagmen."

"We doubt very much if there is a road operating today in this broad domain whose employees are more singularly alive to the great importance of constant and untiring vigilance in the operation of their trains than those of the Southern Railway in Kentucky. In the first place the majority of employees who have charge of trains are Kentuckians to the manner-born—men true and trusty, cool in the hour of danger and full of resource."

"I Live In Irvington, But Give Me Cloverport, Says Cy Winn."

Cy Winn came down from Irvington Saturday to see show boats, while here he was the guest of Norman and Casper Gregory. Cy has a large number of friends here and since he has moved to Irvington has been greatly missed.

He says he is going to make some money this year on the farm and then is coming back to old Cloverport to live.

TO CLEAN FEATHERS.

Select a Good, Bright Day For This Important Work.

This is a task that most housekeepers dread, but it can be done most successfully without the use of any hard work. Select a good, bright day for it, for sun, regardless of old superstitions to the contrary, is the best thing in the world for feathers. Empty the feathers or down into a bag of cheesecloth, tie the mouth tightly and wash in a big tub of strong white soap, with a little ammonia added. Rub the bag between the hands, and dip up and down in the water for ten or fifteen minutes. Rinse through two clear hot waters and hang, without wetting, to drain and dry in the sun or near heat. During the drying process pull the bag apart several times. When dry place in a larger, clean bag and whip well for ten minutes with a rattan whip, and you will find your feathers like new. Then put them back in clean ticks. Of course there is a slight loss in the feathers, as some of them come through the bag, but the clean, fluffy ones almost make up in bulk for what has been lost in water. On account of what shifts through the bag never wash them in set tubs, as the fluff going through the pipes may clog them and cause trouble. A feather bed may be washed in the same way. Of course it is troublesome, but well worth while. Need less to say, the mouth of the bag should be fastened to be in readiness for the feathers when dry. A hot flatiron well coated with beeswax and then run over the inside of pillow and tickle backs the filling from washing through. If you don't wish to wash your feathers it is a great help to rub them with a little oil in summer rain and then sun for several days, bringing them in each night.

Satisfied Each Side.
Nearer seven feet tall than six was the father of the present earl of Enniskillen. He was a hunter, he used to come to the "justice room" ready dressed for hunting, quite early in the morning. In order to hunt cases before he started off to the meet, his practice was to hear the plaintiff and then horse-whip the defendant, abusing him for behaving in such a blackguardly manner. Then he heard the defendant and afterward horsewhipped the plaintiff. It is said that both parties left the court perfectly satisfied, each saying that the other had been horsewhipped by his honor.—London Graphic.

EXPERIMENTAL ROAD.

Details of One That Has Given the Best of Satisfaction.

Samuel S. Jones of Clinton, Wis.,

following the details of his experiment in the construction of an experimental road built for educational purposes under the direction of the office of public roads, with George L. Cooley in charge:

"This road was constructed in the town of Clinton, Rock county, Wis.,

one mile east of the village of Clinton.

In the construction of this road all the machinery was furnished by the government at no expense to the town.

The town, on its part, furnished all the labor and material.

"This road commenced at the top of a clay hill and extended down the side to and across a black muck slough. Thus we had the advantage of observing the construction of and finishing under the different conditions. The road was first graded to a width of thirty-six feet from gutter to gutter. The trench for receiving the crushed rock of which the road was constructed was twelve feet wide.

This trench was shouldered evenly at the edges. The bed of the trench or roadbed was brought to a perfect grade, having a crown of three-fourths inch to the foot from the center of the crown to the side shoulders.

"When the roadbed was in proper shape for the superstructure cross drains were put in at intervals of 100 feet. These drains, which were from eight to ten inches deep and one foot wide, were filled with coarse crushed stone and extended to the outside gutter, thereby insuring perfect drainage for the road when finished.

"The superstructure was built of limestone, the first layer being crushed to a size which would pass through a three inch ring. This layer was then rolled thoroughly and covered with a finer grade of stone and again rolled.

This method of placing on layers and rolling was continued until fourteen inches of the loose material had been laid on the solid bed eight inches thick.

During the rolling process water was sprinkled on the different layers of stone to help cement the stone together and thereby make a perfect surface for traffic. When the road was completed, as far as the coarse stone and rolling were concerned a layer of sixteen inches of solid bed eight inches thick was laid on the surface of the road and alternately rolled and sprinkled until no more could be worked into the roadbed either by sprinkling or rolling.

The surface of the road reached that point of perfection in building where neither sifting nor water could be forced into it. The finishing of the road shoulders, which are six feet wide on each side of the stone, driveway, with just enough shunt to carry off all surface water and leave a good earth road on either side made the road complete and gives us a twenty-four foot road of earth and stone.

"It was built under very expensive conditions, our shortest haul for stone being four miles. Labor cost for stone was $1 per day, team and man from $5 to $7 per day, and even at these prices

we could procure but half enough teams to keep the machinery running, thereby increasing greatly the expense. This road is giving the best of satisfaction and is fast gaining friends."

How to Make Yourself Look Younger

Than You Are.

There is nothing so complimentary which affords a woman greater pleasure than to be told that she does not look her age. Many women do not feel as old as they really are, but their looks betray their years. It is quite possible, however, for them to appear young as well as to feel young and, in fact, take five to ten years off their age by employing proper treatment.

Take the cheeks, for instance, which as age creeps on have a tendency to shrink, while the skin becomes sallow and lines appear about the mouth.

Massage is the only means by which the cheeks can be made plump. Take the tips of the fingers and put or lightly strike the cheeks, using a little cream. Patting is good for any face, and it is one of those things which if practiced in moderation is a great deal for the skin, pinkening it, smoothing it and rounding it out into that delicious plumpness which is so much desired by every normal woman.

But the woman who wants to look young must retain her curves. In the young there is always a set of pretty curves, and these must be retained.

Should they have disappeared, the most attractive of these curves is the one that is made by the cheek, a pleasing rounding from the temple to the chin.

A woman's next care must be for her eyes. The nose can take care of itself. You can do little with the eye but you can make the rest of the

CLOVERPORT, KY., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1909

The Democrats of this county seem to be in pretty good shape, and are entering the campaign with a good deal of enthusiasm. What they want to do is to put up a good clean ticket. Select their best men and they will have a fighting chance. It's going to take every man they've got, and then some, to win. The independent voter holds the balance of power in this county. That vote is going to the best man regardless of what ticket they sail under.

The State School Board has awarded the contract for all the text books used in the county schools of Kentucky to the American Book Company. The contract represents a $1,500,000.

Now let the Republicans get to doing something. They have a fight on their hands if they did but know it. Wake up and get on your war paint.

Let the Democrats fill their ticket with men like Vic. Robertson and there'll be something doing in this county in a political way.

The Senatorial race in this District is a little mixed at this stage of the game. It will take a vote to settle it.

There is something doing over on the Branch every day. It is one of the busiest roads in the State.

Miss Sallie Ellis after a short visit here to her sister, Mrs. Foster Lyons has returned to Owensboro.

The Shriners have all returned from Louisville and they report having the time of their lives and are sure going to New Orleans next year.

One of the most pleasant outing parties of the season was that given on last Saturday by the pupils of the Presbyterian Sunday School at Dent's Bridge, near town. The crowd left the city early in the morning, spending the day in the woods. Notwithstanding a very heavy rain that fell in the afternoon, there was a large crowd and the dinner spread was highly enjoyed by all.

Mr. Edgar Bennett spent two days of last week in the city.

Business was fairly active last week and all of the merchants enjoyed a good trade. The spring trade has been unusually good this year. The farmers are still busy with their crops and harvest is almost here, so there is not very large crowds in town on Saturday.

Mrs. H. H. Kemper will leave in a short while for Mirror, North Dakota, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. A. M. Hardaway for several months.

While there she will go to Seattle, Washington to the Yaukon Exposition.

Sunday School Convention Report

The first session of the Annual County Convention, which met at McQuady, June 2-3, was opened with devotional services conducted by Rev. J. T. Lewis, who read as a scripture lesson the 19th Psalm.

Conference of advanced grades was the first topic called. The superintendent of this department being absent, W. J. Vaughn led the conference, who discussed the work showing the great good that is being accomplished by this department throughout the State and the necessity of all workers being up and doing.

Song 40, "Will There Be Any Stars." Dr. Mather read a very interesting talk on the Sunday Schools of today. Impressing upon all the importance of beginning early in life to train the child for Christ.

Miss Cova Matthews in her report on intermediate work showed the need of an intermediate superintendent in each district and in each school of the district.

W. D. Smith, on "The Senior Department and its Work," made some good suggestions and an sure if put into practice in each school will be found very helpful.

Song 168, "Bringing in the Sheaves," after which the convention adjourned until 7:30.

EVENING SESSION.

Opening song 187, "Praise God." Rev. D. R. Peak read 103 Psalm, Song 124, "Soldiers in the Army." W. J. Vaughn spoke on "The Status of Teachers Training in the State." He emphasized the importance of training teachers in the Sunday School, and the Sunday School will never to their best until they have well trained teachers.

Dr. Mather read as a scriptural text for his sermon Hosea 2:19. This Sunday School sermon was a great feast and we only wish that all Sunday School workers could have heard it.

Song and adjournment.
MORNING SESSION, JUNE 3.
Song 162, "Rescue the Perishing."
Devotional conducted by Prof. H. R. Warner.

Song 168, "Bringing in the Sheaves." Prayer by Rev. D. R. Peak. Reading of last year's minutes by the secretary.

Rev. J. T. Lewis on "Opportunity for Service in the Sunday School," made a most interesting talk, said that in Sabbath School we are living and teaching the word of God.

W. J. Vaughn said, "We are the greatest Sunday School nation in the world. Knowing this we should do our most to push this great work." Report of District secretaries was next called. Only one secretary was present, but two others sent written reports and two districts were reported by county President. After talking the offering the choir sang 188. Adjournment until 1:15.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Devotional by Rev. J. T. Lewis. Mrs. W. J. Piggott made a beautiful talk on the elementary work. The following are a few of the many things a teacher should bear in mind while preparing and teaching his class: mind your P's Q's, patiently, plan practically, practice persistently, qualify quickly, question quietly, pray persistently.

W. J. Vaughn explained the "Organized Adult Bible Class" and showed by illustration the great work accomplished by it in the last year.

Mrs. J. R. Wimp being absent, Miss Cova Matthews explained the I. B. R. A.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

Realizing that every influence that comes into the home should be pure and elevating and such as would tend to the best development of the children, therefore, we wish to recommend that all books, magazines and papers be eliminated from our homes which have in them illustrations holding up low ideals of art, in which disobedience to parents, disrespect to elders and deceit are treated lightly, where malicious mischief is made to seem worthy of emulation and where those things which make for strong, noble, Christian characters are brought into open contempt.

We pledge ourselves to do all in our power to remove these harmful influences from our homes and to create strong public sentiment against them.

Signed, Mrs. W. J. Piggott, J. T. Lewis, Ora B. Hendrick.

The committee on nominations submitted the following report: Pres. T. B. Henderson; Vice Pres., Prof. Joel H. Pile; Sec'y and Treas., Miss Ora B. Hendrick; Supt. of Adult Department, Arthur Ater, Supt. of Intermediate Department, Miss Cova Matthews; Supt. of Elementary Department, Mrs. Jesse Herndon; Supt. of Organization, Mrs. R. Wimp; House to House Visitation and Home Department, Prof. Joel H. Pile.

Signed, J. T. Lewis, C. H. Claycomb, S. C. Dowell, H. R. Warner.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following:

Whereas notwithstanding the inclement weather we have been favored with a large and enthusiastic Sunday School congregation and blessings upon our number therefore,

Resolved, that we extend to the good people of McQuady our thanks and appreciation for their generous hospitality in so pleasantly entertaining the Convention in their homes and for the bestowment of dinner.

Resolved, that we extend our special thanks to the members of the choir for their splendid singing, and the members of the church for their enthusiastic aid manifested in Sunday School work.

Resolved, that we extend to our country papers our appreciation and thanks for the loyal support they have given us in publishing all calls, announcements and programs.

Resolved, that we express our regret for the absence of our State Secretary, E. A. Fox, and extend our sympathy to the immediate family and to all the Sunday School workers in the state.

Resolved, that we express our thanks for the presence and work and valuable suggestions from our field worker, W. J. Vaughn.

Resolved, that we congratulate the International Sunday School Organization of Breckinridge county, for their choice of a corps of county officers of such zeal and executive ability as the present incumbents and express to the president and secretary our thanks for work rendered.

Signed, Mrs. A. N. Simons, Mrs. L. L. Curtis, W. D. Smith, Arthur Ater. This report was received and adopted.

"I took two bottles of your great remedy, PE-RU-NA, and was surprised at the marvelous results. Not only did my catarrh disappear, but I felt an increase in health and strength in my constitution such as I have never felt before. I cannot praise your remedy too highly and shall have great pleasure in recommending it to all my friends in Spanish America."

PE-RU-NA is a Tonic After Exhaustion. Teatro Principal, City of Mexico.

The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A.

Gentlemen: Having used your justly celebrated remedy, PERUNA, for some time, I have the pleasure of informing you that I consider it the best tonic I have ever used.

It is a wonderful fortifier of the nerves after exhaustion, and it increases the vitality of the whole body, and in my own case has produced the most complete and permanent restoration. It is pleasant to the taste.

Do not hesitate, therefore, to recommend this remedy to all women as the best and most pleasant tonic that they can possibly take.

Yours very truly, Senorita Pilar Monterde, Julia Marlowe Endorses PE-RU-NA.

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, PERUNA, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."

Julia Marlowe. PERUNA relieves catarrh, not only by its tonic effect upon the whole system, but by eradicating the poison of catarrh. It gives better appetite, better digestion, better sleep.

PERUNA is manufactured by The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Sadie Cohan, of Louisville, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Schopp. Miss Sadie is quite a charming little girl and has a lot of friends here who are glad to welcome her back with us again.

Mrs. R. S. Skillman is very low at this writing.

Why don't you delight the housewife by furnishing her pure and wholesome flour? Your grocer keeps it. It's the Lewisport flour.

Mrs. Nancy Dowell is still improving, we are glad to say.

Mrs. Will Eitelgeorge and children, of Canton, Ohio, passed through town Saturday enroute to Rome, Ind., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Pettit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Connor and son, Lionel, will leave Saturday for Canton, Ohio, to visit their son, Travis.

There was quite a sad accident occurred at Addison Friday. The little eighteen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Powers was drowned. The mother had been washing and left the little one for a short time and when she returned found the child on its head in a lard can of water.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Roberts died last week of whooping cough.

R. W. French was in Louisville for a few days last week.

Deep Water Humbug.
It is easy to understand the Mississippi valley politician who in one breath paints radiant pictures of the great river (swarming with recreated fleets and in the next breath demands that Congress shall appropriate untold millions for deep water so as to make these commercial navies possible. He is his business for what it will produce in available cash. He wants "boards", everywhere, countless myriads of paid agents and a refreshing shower of Government money through fifteen anxious and receptive States. Then he can point with pride to his work as a rainmaker, and whether as a Congressman or a local legislator or in the still more lucrative position of a "boss" he will grow fat with influence and take a new lease on his job.
But just why the merchants, the shippers, the producers and the traders of the valley, if they believe their interests will be promoted by restoration of the old steamboat line, do not get together and revive the ancient conditions is not so clear. The Mississippi is as deep and as navigable as it ever was. We have just had evidence that the largest vessels can go as high up as New Orleans about four hundred miles from the Gulf of Mexico. All well informed persons were aware of that, as indeed they are aware of the further fact that the river is entirely practicable for hundreds of miles above Natchez and throughout the system of its confederates, the Ohio, the Ohio, the Missouri, the Cumberland, the Tennessee, the Arkansas, the Red, even the Yazoo and the innumerable accessories that drain a domain larger than France with Spain and Portugal thrown in for lagnapne. As we say, all of these streams are as susceptible as they were forty years ago. Business can be transacted as satisfactorily now as it was then. It would not be necessary perhaps to rebuild the old timber box, half crazy craft of the vanished period, but vessels with the speed and dash of the moderns and their details adapted to modern needs and expectations. Travel and traffic seem to have deserted the steamboat establishment and betaken themselves to the railways; but is the reason of all this fundamental and inevitable or is it because the railroads keep pace with modern emergencies and the steamboat people fail to read aright their destinies.
One thing is certain in our mind, and that is the entire feasibility of reproducing the former river traffic if there are practical demands for its reproduction. Possibly there may be no call for such of these sumptuous vehicles of travel as the old J. M. White, the most palatial and luxurious boat that ever thrived the devious pathway of the Mississippi—from New Orleans to Greenville, Miss., to be statistical. On that splendid and fast passenger steamer, decked opulently and set down to banquets that would have made the best of our hotels look anxious. It may be they were in no hurry and that the rollicking haste of the railroads in these times has dulled their appetite for a life of pleasure and contentment. We content ourselves with the assertion that the Mississippi, the Ohio, the Missouri and all the rest of the Southern and Western rivers are still navigable, that those really concerned can easily find a restoration of the old river traffic if they so desire and that all this hurrah about "deep water navigation" is born of an organized assault upon the Treasury that would if successful stagger the imagination of the most reckless rabble-chaser in the world.
The rivers are still there. Politics has not elevated their beds or contacted their channels. If commerce needs the rehabilitation, well and good. The fleets will follow.—N. Y. Sun.

MASS CONVENTION.
The County Democratic Committee Call Mass Convention for Monday, July 19, at Hardinsburg.

THE OLD FASHIONED WAY.

The Democratic County Committee met in Hardinsburg Monday. There was a fairly good attendance; all the precincts being represented save three. It was a very harmonious meeting and the best of feeling prevailed.
Chairman Moore called the committee to order, and stated that the object of the meeting was to put the party machinery in good working order for the fall campaign.
This is the first deal out of the box in the great county race. Republicans beat us, he said, when we are not organized. There is no possible chance for them to do it if we are careful in naming our ticket. What we want to do is to put up good, clean, strong men for the various offices and we can win.
He was not in favor of a primary for he reason, he said, that there were no candidates. He then called for an expression from the various committeemen and Democrats present for their views.
Mr. John Alexander wanted to know who the delegates were, and if they were there with the proper credentials. He suggested that a committee of three be appointed on credentials. His motion prevailed, and the chair appointed G. C. Lightfoot, R. D. St. Clair and W. C. Blain as a committee to look into the matter. The committee retired, and after a brief consultation, reported everything regular save the proxy of J. W. Good, which was not regular, Mr. Marr not being a member of the committee could not vote the proxy. Mr. Marr retired and had no voice in the meeting.
Gen. Murray was then asked to give his opinion as to the best way of nominating candidates. He advised an old-fashioned Democratic Mass Convention, such as they used to have. Judge Mercer was in favor of a Delegate Convention. He said there wouldn't be one in the Court House or in the yard for the great mass of Democrats who would be there that day.
Judge Matthias Miller was not in favor of a Mass Convention. It would give an advantage to the man who was near the county seat. He could get all his friends together and carry the convention by storm. He said there were good conservative men in all the districts of the county who could be sent here; men who have no axes to grind, and in this way the will of the people could be expressed fairly and impartially. He was in favor of a Delegate Convention.
W. F. Hook said he was not a candidate and he wanted good men selected. He had no choice in the matter, and believed the Democrats could win if perfect harmony prevailed.
Mr. Moore was in favor of a Mass Convention. He would like to see such a crowd as Judge Mercer predicts. It would give the cause of Democracy a boost such as he hadn't had in years. It would be glorious he thought, and the best thing for the party.
Jim Jarboe thought an old-fashioned Mass Convention would be a great love feast and would help the cause.
V. G. Bablage was in favor of a Mass Convention. He liked the "love feast" part of it.
H. L. Stader then made a motion that a Mass Convention be called to meet in Hardinsburg some time in July. A vote was taken on this motion—eleven voting for it and four voting no.
Charlie Lightfoot, who voted with the minority, moved that it be made unanimous, and the date of the convention Monday, July 19. His motion prevailed and the meeting then adjourned.

The Senatorial Committee.
Mr. Moore, as Chairman of the Senatorial District Committee, called that committee together to take action in the matter of naming a candidate for State Senator.

Mr. Moore was elected chairman of the meeting and Ed Dillon, secretary. Mr. Moore said all the candidates were present, and the committee was ready to hear them as to what they wanted, whether a primary or a convention.
Senator Owen said he had no desire in the matter, only for the success of the party. He was in favor of leaving it entirely with the committee.
Mr. Brown wanted to know if the action of the committee would be final. He said he would like to see the committeemen and get a little better acquainted with them, as he had only recently announced and had had no chance to discuss the matter with them.
Mr. Shellman was in favor of leaving it entirely with the committee, as he had no choice. He would abide by the action of the committee.
On motion of Mr. Fyminir, of Meade, action of the committee was deferred to some future time, or on the call of the chairman, the call not to be later than July 19.
The committee then adjourned.

Louisville Market Report.

Louisville, June 15.—Wheat No. 2, red $1.50. Corn, 75¢ cents. Oats 63 cents. Eggs steady at 18¢ and 19 cents. Cattle, Shipping steers, 5 60¢. Beef steers $3.00 and 3.75; fat heifers $5.50 and 5.75; choice Milch cows $5 and 42; best calves 64 and 65 cents. Hogs, top $7.40; best lambs 8 and 8 1/2 cents. Poultry—Hens 11 1/2 cents per pound; roosters 6 cents; turkeys 19 and 22¢; ducks 8¢; geese 5¢.

A Substitute For Broiling.
Occasionally in cooking, and stores there is no broiler. Instead of falling back on unhealthful frying for meat, try heating a pump piping hot, put the steak in it without greasing, turn as soon as seared and keep turning until the meat is done.
To season remove from pan, put on hot platter, dress with bits of butter, salt and pepper on both sides of steak, put in the oven a few minutes to draw a brown dressing.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1928, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"No, she must go away."
"No?" There was a puzzled note in the pastor's voice.
"She went out," Polly corrected.
"Out?" he echoed blankly.
"Yes, indeed—lights out."
"Oh, an accident," Douglas understood at last.
"I don't like to talk about it," Polly raised herself on her elbow and looked at him solemnly, as though about to impart a bit of forbidden family history. It was this look in the round eyes that had made him so often declare that the kid knew everything.
"Why, mother'd 'a' been ashamed if she'd 'a' known how she would up. She was the best sister of her time—everybody says so—but she cashed in by fallin' 'o' a skate what didn't have no more glugger 'n a kitten. If you can, best 'a' 'a' gazed at him with her lips pressed tightly together, evidently expecting some startling expression of wonder.
"And your father?" Douglas asked rather lamely, being at a loss for any adequate comment upon a tragedy which the child before him was too desolate even to understand.
"Oh, dad's finish was all right. He got his'n in a lions' cage where he worked. There was nothin' slow about his end." She looked up for his approval.
"For de Lord's sake!" Mandy groaned as the wonder of the child's conversation grew upon her.
"How 'n' I do 'n' out," Polly concluded, with a sigh.
"But this is nothing serious," said the pastor, trying to cheer her.
"It's serious enough with a whole show a-dependin' on you. Maybe you don't know how it feels to have to knock off work."
"Oh, yes, I do," Douglas answered quickly. "I was ill a while ago myself. I had to be in bed day after day, thinking of dozens of things that I ought to be doing."
"Was you ever fussed?" Polly asked with a touch of uneasiness as she studied the fine, healthy physique at the side of her bed.
"Deed, he was, chile," Mandy cried, feeling that her opportunity had now arrived, "an' I had the worst time a-keepin' him in bed. He act jes' like you did."

"Did he?" Polly was delighted to find that the pastor had 'nother'n on her, as she would have put it.
"You ought to have heard him," continued Mandy, made eloquent by Polly's show of interest. "What would those poor folks do? be kept a-sayin', 'Jes' you lay where you is, I love him. Dem poor folks will be better off dan dey would be a-comin' to yoth funeral.'"
"Poor folks?" Polly questioned. "Do you give money to folks? We are always tchin' to get it away from 'em."
"Before Douglas could think of words with which to defend his disapproved methods, Mandy had continued eagerly:
"An' den on Sunday, when he can't go to church an' preach—' She got no further. A sharp exclamation brought both Mandy and Douglas to attention.
"Preach!" Polly almost shouted. She looked at him with genuine alarm this time.
"That will do, Mandy," Douglas commanded, feeling an unwelcome drama gathering about him.
"Gentle Barrenum and Relief?" Polly exclaimed, looking at him as though he were the very last thing in the world she had ever expected to see.
"Are you a sky pilot?"
"That's what he ain, chile," Mandy slipped the words in slyly, for she knew that they were against the pastor's wishes, but she was unable to restrain her mischievous impulse to sow the seeds of curiosity that would soon bear fruit in the inquisitive mind of the little invalid.
"Will you get on to me a-landin' into a muckup like this?" She continued to study the uncomfortable man at her side. "I never thought I'd be a-talkin' to one of you g'ds. What's your name?"
"Douglas," He spoke shortly.
"Ain't you got no handle to it, is John?"
"If you mean my Christian name, it's John."
"Well, that sounds like a sky pilot all right. But you don't look like I s'posed they did."
"Why not?"
"I always s'posed sky pilots was old an' gruncly-like. You're a most as good lookin' as our strong man."
"I dole told him he was too good lookin' to be an unmarried person."

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Write writing-menapal reading this generous offer in this paper and your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Hone strength, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

"Well, you take my tip. Don't you never go in for ridin'." "I'm not so sure about that," he laughed.
"Well, you take my tip. She leaned forward as though about to impart a very valuable bit of information. "Don't you never go in for ridin'." There ain't no act on earth so hard as a ridin' act. The rest of the bunch has got it easy alongside of us. Take the fellows on the trapeze. They always get their tackle up in jes' the same place. Take the balance acts. There ain't no difference in their layouts. Take any of 'em as depends on regular props, and they ain't got much chance a-agin' wrong. But, say, when you have to do a ridin' act, there ain't never no two times alike. If your horse is feelin' good, the ground is stumblin'; if the ground ain't on the blink, the horse is wobbly. There's always somethin' wrong somewhere, and you ain't never knowin' how it's goin' to end, especially when you got to do a careful act like mine. There's a girl, Elodie, in our bunch what does a showy act on a horse what Barker calls Barberian. She goes on in my place sometimes, and, say, then Barker applauds her as much as me, an' her stunts is baby tricks alongside of mine. It's enough to make you sick of art." She shook her head doubtfully, then sat up with renewed interest.
"You see, mine is careful balancin' all that, an' you got to know your horse an' your ground for that. Now, all you got to do is what I'm a-tellin' you and don't you never go into anything which depends on anything else."
"Thank you, Polly, I won't," Douglas answered. "I feel that he was very much indebted to her."
"I seen a church show once," Polly said suddenly.
"You did?" Douglas asked, with new interest.
"Yes," she answered, closing her lips and venturing no further comment.
"Did you like it?" he questioned after a pause.
"Couldn't make nothin' out of it. I don't care much for readin'." "Oh, it isn't all readin'," he corrected.
"Well, the guy I saw read all of his'n. He got the whole thing right out of a book."
"Oh, that was only his text," laughed Douglas.
"Text?"
"Yes. And later he tried to interpret 'sine, rectoris, different acts—ones, some, 'tis 'em. Uncle Toby's got twenty-seven entries. It makes a heap of difference in the big words where you have a run."
"Oh, I understand," Douglas answered in a tone of relief. "Well, I try to say somethin' new each Sunday."
"What kind of words do you give 'em?" she inquired, with growing interest.
"I try to help my people to get on better terms with themselves and to forget their week day troubles." He had never had occasion to define his efforts so minutely.
"Well, that's jes' the same as us," Polly told him, with an air of confidence. "One circus draws more people 'n a church." "You're does show to be a more popular form of entertainment," Douglas answered dryly. He was beginning to feel that there were many tricks in the entertainment trade which he had not mastered. And, after all, what was his preaching but an effort at entertainment? If he failed to hold his congregation by what he was saying, his listeners grew drowsy and his sermon fell short of its desired effect. It was true that his position and hers had been of similarity. She was apparently successful. As for himself he could not be sure. He knew he tried very hard and that sometimes a tired mother or a fussy child looked up at him with a smile that made the service seem worth while.
Polly mistook the pastor's reverie for idly and her tender heart was quick to find consolation for him.
"You ain't got all the worst of it," she said. "If we tried to play a dump like this for six months, we'd starve to death. You certainly must give 'em a great show," she added, surveying him with growing interest.
"It doesn't make much difference about the show," Douglas began, but he was quickly interrupted.
"That's right: it's les' the same with a circus. One year you give 'em the potestest kind of a thing, an' they eat it up; the next year you ham 'em a knockout, an' it's a frost. Is that the way it is with a church show?"

"Much the same," Douglas admitted, half amusedly, half regretfully. "Very often when I work the hardest I seem to do the least good."
"I guess our troubles is pretty much alike," Polly nodded, with a motherly which give you such exquisite suffering, every month, are caused, as you know, by female trouble. Relief seldom or never comes of itself. It is necessary to cure the cause, in order to stop the pains, and this can only be done if you will take a specific, female remedy, that acts directly on the womanly organs.

WOMAN'S RELIEF

"Careful old wonders for me," writes Mrs. H. C. Larson of Okla. "I had female trouble for 8 years. I had displacement, which increased my suffering. The doctor could only relieve me at times. Now, I am so much better. I hardly know when my time begins or when it ends."

"I seek it." "I like to look at pictures," Polly answered tentatively. Mandy crossed the room to fetch the large Bible with its steel engravings.
"We got a girl named Ruth in our 'heap of death' stum. Some of the folks is kinder down on 'er, but I ain't."

She might have told Douglas more of her former little friend, but just then Mandy came to the bed hugging a large, old fashioned Bible, and Douglas has helped to place the ponderous book before the invalid.

"See, honey, dar dey is," the old woman said, pointing to the picture of Ruth and Naomi.
"Them's crackjacks, ain't they?" Polly gasped, and her eyes shone with wonder. "Which one's Ruth?"
"Dis one," said Mandy, pointing with her thumb.
"Why, they're dressed just like our chariot drivers. What does it say about 'em?"

"You can read it for yourself," Douglas answered gently. There was something pathetic in the eagerness of the starved little mind.

"Well, I ain't much on readin'—out loud," she faltered, growing suddenly conscious of her deficiencies. "Read it for me, will you?"
"Certainly." And he drew his chair nearer to the bed. One story after another he read, and Douglas supported the other half of the Bible and his head was very near to hers as he deep, full voice pronounced the solemn words in which Ruth pleaded so many years before.

"Entrust me not to leave thee," he read, "or to return from following after thee, whether thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

He stopped to ponder over the poetry of the lines.
"Kind of pretty, ain't it?" Polly said softly. She felt awkward and constrained and a little overawed.
"There are far more beautiful things than that," Douglas assured her enthusiastically as the echo of many such rang in his ears.

"Yes, indeed," he replied, pitying more and more the starvation of mind and longing to bring to it floods of light and enrichment.
"I guess 'd like to hear you spie," and she felt to studying him solemnly.
"You won't?" he asked eagerly.

"I have any more to that story?" she asked, ignoring his question.
"Yes, indeed." "Where thou diest will I die, and there will be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if I ought but death part me and thee."
"Thy eyes met. There was a long pause. Suddenly the sharp, earnest notes of the church bell brought John Douglas to his feet with a start of surprise.

"Have you got to go?" Polly asked regretfully.
"Yes, I must, but I'll read the rest from the church. Open the window, Mandy." And he pushed out at the door and quickly down the stairs.

Women Who Are Envious.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are envied of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation of Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wrecked complexion. For all such, Ely's Cream works wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at Severs Drug Co.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

Is Now Curable

MADAM

Are you afflicted with this disease? Then you certainly have not used MAJI.

Dr. Alexander Crossman, the eminent Hair and Scalp Specialist has, after 15 years of research and experimenting, discovered an absolute remedy for this unsightly disfigurement.

Guaranteed to Destroy the Coarsest Growth or Your MONEY REFUNDED. Guaranteed to be absolutely non-injurious to the most delicate.

AND WE CAN PROVE it

The above is not the result of magic, but of this wonderful discovery named MAJI. This photograph is ONE of the thousands of cases MAJI has cured. MAJI is endorsed and recommended by the most reputable physicians as the only remedy for PERMANENT removal and destruction of superfluous hair.

The action of this WONDERFUL compound commences immediately on its application to the parts afflicted. MAJI does not burn the hair, thus making it return more coarse and bristly than ever. MAJI goes to the root of the evil—it destroys the cause of the growth. It destroys the factors favorable to its growth. Maji cures by destroying the productive conditions that cause this disease.

If you want to be CURED, if you want to dispense with the fine razor, if you wish to discard the heavy veil you are compelled to wear to conceal this humiliating, unsightly blemish, get a bottle of MAJI now—at once. If your druggist does not keep it send $1.00 to us direct and we will mail it to you, postage prepaid, in plain wrapper.

POLITICS WARMING THINGS UP

Ernest Haswell has returned to Cincinnati where he will remain until August prosecuting his studies in art. In September he will become a member of the faculty of Union College, Barbourville.

Allen Kincheloe is at home from Louisville for a month's rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Chambliss, of Ekron, and Mrs. Sam Parsons, of Leitchfield, were the guests of Mrs. Mary M. Chambliss Saturday.

The Children's Day exercises Sunday at the M. E. Church were given to a crowded house of well pleased listeners. The church was beautifully decorated, the children carefully trained, and each number of the program faultlessly given. A twenty-seven dollar collection was taken for the benefit of the cause of education.

The committee in charge of the training of the children was composed of Misses Katie Eskridge, Clara Heston, Ethel Meador, Emma All and Catherine Kincheloe, with Miss Lizzie Eskridge, organist.

Teachers examination will be held next Friday and Saturday at the Public School building, commencing promptly at 8:30 o'clock, Friday morning. It will be conducted by Supt. Pile, Miss Mary Jo Mattingly, of Axle, and the new examiner, J. W. Trent, of Custer.

Mrs. Joe Teaff returned Saturday from a ten day treatment at Martinsville, Ind.

Principal J. Hale Edwards, of the County High School, left his Texas home last week for Chicago University, where he will spend the summer.

Miss Sallie Hawkins, of McCook, Neb., is visiting relatives in the county until September. She is the daughter of "Cale" Hawkins, who formerly lived in the New Bethel neighborhood.

Miss Carrie Chick, of Mt. Sterling, will arrive this week to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Manie Moorman.

Miss Mary Ann, Ruth and Martha Harned, of Garfield, were the guests of Miss Katie Smith and attended the recital given by Mrs. Withers pupils Friday night.

Mrs. Minor Compton, of Garfield, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Compton last week.

Dr. Walker has moved into Mrs. Judith DeJarnett's property to remain during the erection of his dwelling on Louisville street.

Misses Ida Dowell and Cora Woods, of Garfield, were guests at the Commercial Hotel Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Harned, of Oklahoma, is here with her husband and two daughters, who were reported last week as visitors to their native state.

The week beginning June 27th will inaugurate the second educational "whirlwind campaign" in Kentucky. Every minister in the state is requested by the State Superintendent to preach that day upon education. For the next six days there will be speaking over the entire state. Next week's issue will contain the announcements for this county.

Gus Brown's announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the State Senatorship from this district is adding interest to the race. The other two candidates are the Hon. Dick Owen, of Hancock county, the present senator, and the Hon. Ed. Shellenman, of Irvington, ex-member of the lower house. There are not three better known or better men in the district, and while Gus Brown is the newest he starts with an enviable record as county officer, an extreme popularity wherever known and a wide acquaintance in Meade county, his old home. Shellenman's career in the lower house is one to recommend him as a safe and economical man in the upper house. Dick Owen's Senatorial acts are known to all men. His business relations, his extensive acquaintance and ex-residence in this county, all recommend him. Something will be doing to waken the people to the fact that there will be another election this fall.

Dave Walls, Joe Moore and most of our other students at Bowling Green returned Saturday.

Reid, the ten months old child of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Haswell, died Wednesday after a few days illness of inflammatory diarrhoea. The funeral service and interment occurred Thursday morning.

Dr. Mather, Herbert Beard, Jesse Whitworth, Franklin Kincheloe, Leslie Walker and Web Williamson went to Fordsville Saturday to attend a Masonic banquet Saturday night. They report an excellent time a veritable feast, and the essence of Kentucky hospitality. Dr. Mather and Mr. Whitworth were two of the principal speakers.

Born--To Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Hook, Saturday, June 12, an eleven pound boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Web Williamson, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Buckler, of Roff, Kentucky.

Mrs. H. L. Lewis, of Centertown, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McGary.

Mrs. Margaret May left Saturday to visit her daughter, Mrs. S. A. Pate of Hopkinsville.

Edith, the little daughter of Andrew Driskill is ill of typhoid fever.

The Breckenridge Medical Society met here Wednesday in regular session with a good attendance.

Mrs. Adella Anderson, of Evansville, was operated on at Kincheloe's infirmary Monday morning.

On Thursday night last, near the "witching hour" of midnight, the Rev. Dr. Mather was called from his slumbers by a party of ladies and gentlemen who had driven over from McQuady for the purpose of seeing the wedding ceremony performed between two of their number. Mr. Frank Wilson and Miss Myrtle Bland, young people who are well known in their community were the contracting parties, and the knot was tied at exactly three minutes before midnight, amid the congratulations of their friends and well wishers.

The recital by Mrs. Withers' pupils at the City Hall Friday night brought out a packed house of people intent upon enjoying a treat, such as is annually given. This was perhaps the best yet. Each number was faultlessly rendered, and both vocal and instrumental selections were roundly applauded. The class was large, necessitating a full evening's entertainment.

M. J. Thomas fell some time ago so injuring his ankle that he has been unable to be out of the house since.

Thomas Tabor aged about 83 died Sunday night after a long period of illness. His last days were spent with his daughter, Mrs. Nix, at whose home he died near Harned. At the fall last fall Mr. Tabor fell injuring his hip. From the result of the fall he never recovered. The deceased was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Lamb, his second a Mrs. Horsley. Both wives are dead. Besides Mrs. Nix, Mrs. Elijah Driskill, James W. Sam and Everett Tabor are surviving children. The remains were laid to rest in the Ephesus burying ground Monday afternoon.

Miss Linnie Haswell came home Monday from Garrettsville Mission.

A. Fallon, Railroad St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to the claims made for them. My kidneys and bladder were disordered for twelve years. My back ached severely and when I stooped or lifted, sharp twinges darted through my loins, causing me to suffer intensely. When I first arose in the morning I was lame and sore and the slightest work exhausted me. I was also so languid and at times felt very nervous. Headaches and dizzy spells were added to my affliction and too frequent passages of the kidney secretions caused me great annoyance, particularly at night when I was forced to rise from three to six times. I used but one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Fisher's drug store and received almost entire relief. I intend to continue with them and have no doubt that I will soon be entirely cured."

From The Journal

Of Madame Leandre.

In early youth we demand that a friendship be absolute, that every chord of a friend's soul be tuned in harmony with our own. Later only we learn that a subtler, keener delight lies in drawing melodies from resistant instruments.

Our book shelves are the toilet tables of our intellects. There we intensify our whiteness with the sweet white purity of Lamb and Goldsmith--and the vivid color of our blush with the passionate rouge of Flaubert and D'Annunzio and the charm of our smile with coquettish beauty spots from Ovid and Menander--and the seduction of our languor with strange, subtle perfumes from Oscar Wilde and Verlaine.

No matter how spiritual a love may be, it always must crave to express itself physically.

If you are sure of yourself, you can afford not to be sure of your lover. Woljeska Tindolph, in July Smart Set.

THE SHOW

Performance Given At The Local Wharf Last Evening was a Fine One.

The performance given at the local wharf last evening by the Cotton Blossom Show Boat company was undoubtedly the finest it has been the privilege of local people to enjoy in a long while. Clean, wholesome comedy enacted by a bevy of clever stars marked the performance throughout. The boat is one of finest ever landing here and is thoroughly equipped with everything necessary to make it a veritable floating palace--Herald, Mountville, W. Va. The Cotton Blossom Show Boat will be at the river Monday, June 21.
